dangerous affections of the Pulmonary Organs yield to its power; and cases of Consumption, cured by this preparation, are publicly known, so remarkable as hardly to be believed, were they not proven beyond dispute. As a remedy it is adequate, on which the public may rely for full protection. By curing Coughs, the forerunners of more serious disease, it saves unnumbered lives, and an amount of suffering not to be computed. It challenges trial, and convinces the most sceptical. Every family should keep it on hand as a protection against the early and unperceived attack of Pulmonary Affections, which are easily met at first, but which become incurable, and too often fatal, if neglected. Tender lungs need this defence; and it is unwise to be without it. As a sategoard to children, amid the distressing diseases which beset the Throat and Chest of childhood, Cherry Pectoral is invaluable; for, by its timely use, multitudes are rescued from premature graves, and saved to the love and affection centred on them. It acts speedily and surely against ordinary colds, seeming sound and health sectorized leer.

saved to the love and affection centred on them. It acts speedily and surely against ordinary colds, securing sound and health-restoring sleep. No one will suffer troublesome Influenza and painful Broughtitis, when they know how easily they can be cured.

Originally the product of long, laborious, and successful chemical investigation, no cost or toll is spared in making every bottle in the utmost possible perfection. It may be confidently relied upon as possessing all the virtues it has ever exhibited, and capable of producing cures as memorable as the greatest it has ever effected.

Third Term.

Washington, October 24.—Intimate friends of the President say that he has made no allusions whatever to them concerning the question of the third term. nor is it known that any one has mentioned the subject to him in conversation, and further, he has in no way expressed himself in such a manner as to induce them to believe he has any aspirations in that direction. They further remark, although much has been said and written upon the subject, the question has not come to him in the form requiring a reply, and, therefore, any utterance he might might make would not only be gratuitous and intrusive, but contrary

The management have determined to have the drawing of the Fifth and Last Gift Concert of the Public Library of Kentucky, on the 30th day of November next. We believe now that all the tickets will be sold, and that the drawing will be a full one; but whether all are sold or not, the drawing will nevertheless certainly come off on the day appointed.

The special object of this card is to call a meeting of the ticket-holders at Public Library Hall, on the 20th of Nobad faith, and demanded a conference vember, to make arrangements in connection with the committee appointed by the Trustees to superintend the counting of the tags representing the numbers of tickets sold. While there is no actual necessity for the presence of ticket-holders, as under our arrangements the interests of all are equally cared for, yet at the same time I would greatly prefer that as many of those interested as can, would attend this meeting and see each for himself how perfectly fair and impartial the listribution must be.

Every arrangement has been made for the drawing—but little more than a month remains for the sale of the re mainder of the tickets, and whatever is done must be done promptly.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Whereas default has M been made in the payment of the money secured by mortgage dated the 25th day of January, 1859, executed by Oscar R. Drake and Emma M. Drake, of the town of New Haven, in Oswego Co., N. Y., to John Jamison, of Amboy, in Oswego Co., which mortgage was recorded in the Clerk's office of said county in liber 50 of mortgages, at page 216, on the 29th day of January, 1859, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of that day, and whereas the amount claimed to be due upon said mortgage at the time of the first publication of this notice is the sum of two hundred eighty-eight dollars and seven cents, that being the whole mortgage debt unpaid. And whereas, the said mortgage has been duly assigned to Jerome Woodard. Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and duly recorded as aforesaid, and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described, at public auction, at the office of A. F. Kellogg, in the village of Mexico, in Oswego County, N. Y., on the 26th day of December, 1874, at 1 o'clock in the afternoon of that day. The same premises are described in said mortgage as follows: All that tract or parcel of land situate in the town of New Haven aforesaid, and being a part of lot. No. 49, in the 19th township of Scriba's Patent, bounded and described as follows: Beginning 5 chains 49 links, from the north line of the same, and running from thence south along the east line of five acres of land lately deeded to Henry M. Smith, thence east along said Smith's land so far as to include ten acres of land, lying between said Smith's north line and the north line of said lot, the east line of said ten acres to be parallel to and with the east line of said Wheeler's five acres.—Dated October 1, 1874.

egar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINEGAR BIT-TERS?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of Vinegar Bitters in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs in Bilious

The Rome Institution.

This enterprise is not progressing as wish. Still enthusiasm has by no means died out; its old friends remain true, and new ones are gradually approaching. Political affairs have their influence on such things, and the men at the head are more or less interested as the annual campaign comes round. Consequently, until the election is well over, the little deafmute school must wait. From then and during the session of the Legislature, there may be more to chronicle.

Call Things by their Right Names.

We have frequently pointed out the persistency with which newspapers in general call our institutions asylums. The editors of these papers may think it a small matter, and to the average reader it is probably a matter of indifference which word is used. Not so with us. Our "sheepskin" hangs somewhere and can be produced when necessary for inspection, and we most certainly do not want to be pointed out as a graduate of an asulum. We often read an account of some occurence connected with our institutions—a brilliant closing examination, all under the heading of "Asylum for the Deaf." It certainly does not speak well for the nice discernment of American editors. Another thing, it gives those not very familiar with the deaf and dumb, a wrong idea of the objects of the edifices in which the deaf are collected.

A New York daily lately published something interesting and encouraging for the friends of the deaf, under the heading "State College for the Deaf in New Jersey." Now this is entirely misleading. For "college" read institution, and all the rest is doubtless cor-

Doubtless the subject will be brought up at the Watertown Convention in 1875. but meantime it will do no harm for the knights of the quill to buckle on their armor and have a few skirmishes. We throw open our columns to all communications on the subject, provided they are not too long.

Sold I

Reader, did you ever pick up a newspaper, and running your oye over the contents, catch something headed in such a way as to lead you to suppose the article contained some allusion to the deaf and dumb? Have you not frequently read such an article from beginning to end, as carefully as possible without finding that which you sought ? We have; and it has made us mad, without reason, we are entirely aware. It may have been written and titled with the best intentions, and often it contains in ormation otherwise interesting. Still we don't find what we are after, we have our hunt and care for nothing-and who likes to be sold?

Misery loves company, and we want to know if we didn't have a companion in our last sell. When our Advance came the other day, we noticed an article headed "A Mute Witness of a Robbery," and sat right down to find out all about him. Did he look long enough to recognize the thieves? Did he give information that led to their capture? Did he testify in court? and how did he manage to do it? were some of our thoughts as we began to read. We read and read, but didn't discover the mute. A man had been gagged and placed in a chair while the robbers went on with their work-that was all the mute about

Now we are curious to know if the editor of the Advance was sold too, and republished the article that his readers might share his experience; or did he merely glance at the heading, and taking the rest for granted, give it for what it was worth.

The refreshments were the best ever gotten together and the occasion was one not easily to be forgotten by the participants.

Mr. and Mrs. Kee left Syracuse on the following Monday for Argyle, N. Y., where they intend to make their home, and Mr. Brown on the evening of the same day, for Oneida, N. Y., to reside with his mother.

The best wishes of their many friends and acquaintances in Syracuse follow them with the fond hope of meeting them all again at some future day, in the same house, and under alike pleasant circumstances.

The almost universal experience of similar undertakings is, that the collection of money, brisk enough at first, soon falls off; and when the monument, contracted for in the first burst of enthusiasm, is finished, the means on hand are insufficient to pay for it, and the unfortunate committee are saddled with a heavy load of debt. That it has proved otherwise in this case, is highly creditable to the prompt and hearty response of the deaf and dumb to the appeal made to Birmingham, on the eleventh day of Septheir gratitude and liberality, and the faithfulness and prudence of the officers selected to take charge of the contribu-

Telegraphic Chastisement.

Those connected with the high class of the New York Institution within the last six or eight years will remember the system of drum-telegraph that was practiced before visitors. Each pupil being required to commit the telegraph alphabet to memory, and conventionally makgrass and it is determined to have the ing a tap on the drum signify a dot, a short roll a short dash, and a long roll a long dash, by dint of practice quick and accurate communication was established between the pupil and the "operator." Sometimes the drum would be out of order, and hence useless for telegraphic purposes, but there were other ways of entertaining the visitor. One was to telegraph by means of lead pencil or small stick raps on the pupil's shoulder. A heavy stick rapping on the floor would make way for a little procession, headed do the work well. One day a company of visitors was announced, and the drum, as usual, brought into use, but alas! after a few raps the treacherous surface gave way, and the telegraphic instrument was left, as it were, without fastens the drapery is placed in Miss a battery. The room was carpeted and Beers' hand—this young lady having been requested to perform the unveiling, make the requisite noise. So the lead pencil rapping on the shoulder was the last resort. The visitors were asked to grandfather, as one of his immediate give a sentence, which received was telethe circumstances. The officers of the home-circle, than either of her cousins graphed by means of the lead pencil on the pupil's shoulder and by him correctly written on a small slate. Other messages followed and were successfully telegraphed, and the exercises pronounced novel and interesting. But one old gentleman among the party thought that this telegraphing might be put to some practical use. So he inquired if some other instrument would not answer the purpose of the lead pencil. The principal assented. Would a whip? The principal thought so. Then the gentleman said that the new system of telegraphy was, to his mind, invaluable as a means of chastisement, for with a good sized whip, the experienced "operator" could not only reach the physical seat of feeling, but could also, by means of judicious rappings with the whip, reach the men-In short the disobedient youth could be punished for his misdeeds, and On the spacious platform in front of the pulpit are seated the dual presiding time.
